

Goodfellow AFB Key Spouse Program

In a Military Family..

We ALL Serve.

Key Spouse Program

- The Key Spouse program is a Command sponsored program.
- Key Spouses are volunteers appointed by the Commander and trained through the Airman & Family Readiness Center (AFRC).

We Recruit
Airmen,
But We Retain
Families

- Squadron Key Spouses provide resources and support to military members and families.
- They follow Privacy Act, confidentiality, and mandatory reporting guidelines.

Key Spouse Mission

- Welcome new families to the squadron and answer any questions about base and community resources

- Exchange vital information between unit leadership and families

KEEP
KEY SPOUSE

- Provide a peer-to-peer support system for handling military life experiences

- Share squadron and base events, community information, volunteer opportunities, and referral services

- Help families prepare for separations due to deployments or long-term TDYs

We want your families to know that we are all navigating the military life together and we are here for them to answer any questions, share important information, and provide support in any way we can.

Military Dependents

- PLEASE ensure dependents are registered in the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS) to be eligible for TRICARE and ID cards
- PLEASE ensure Servicemember Group Life Insurance (SGLI) is up to date and includes your dependents
  - If an emergency arises the last thing you want your family to think about is insurance
- Get an emergency contact number in case your family needs to get a hold of you
- Ensure your dependents are on your future PCS orders
- Any questions contact your MTL or Flight leadership
