FAQs

Will I get to prosecute courts?

You will assist the attorney in charge of the prosecution by interviewing witnesses, drafting motions, preparing exhibits, as well as other aspects of the court-martial process.

What does the legal office do?

The base legal office is responsible for providing legal advice to commanders, first sergeants and other key personnel on a variety of legal subjects.

Where do paralegals work?

Most paralegals start working in base legal offices. As paralegals gain experience and attend advanced training, their opportunities increase to include managing criminal defense offices, special victims offices, appellate offices and medical law consultant offices.

Will I deploy?

Yes. There are many opportunities to deploy and perform similar functions as a base legal office and many other exciting opportunities to work with host nations.

Where is tech school?

The JAG Corps has a top of the line facility for training of attorneys and paralegals at Maxwell AFB, AL. Tech school is a seven week immersion into the career field.

Will I be stationed overseas?

Paralegals are stationed worldwide in Asia, Europe, CONUS, Alaska, Hawaii, and Australia
